Dear Clary,

How are you doing?

The reason I'm writing to you is to tell you about many things I've been keeping to myself, related to our relationship. We have been friends since we were children, and since then I've always loved you and stayed by your side. However, you haven't been clear with your feelings. Sometimes, when I think everything is going in the right direction, you go with Jace. I've seen the way you look at him, with love and desire, and it is not the same as how you look at me. Even after that, you have been playing with my feelings, giving me hope when , actually, you were in love with someone else. We are girlfriend and boyfriend, so I really hope you can really start being honest with me instead of hiding your true feelings. The truth may hurt, but it will hurt even more as time goes on.

Please be honest.

Sincerely,

Simon Lewis.
